Invertebrates: Crustaceans

Crustaceans are a subgroup of arthropods that includes lobster, crabs, shrimp, crayfish, and even pill bugs and water fleas. They have the same three body segments as insects, but the head and thorax are sometimes fused into one piece, called the cephalothorax.