The trouble with not having a goal is that you can spend your life running up and down the field and never scoring.

– Bill Copeland

We judge ourselves by what we feel capable of doing, while others judge us by what we have already done.

– Henry Wadsworth Longfellow