Landmarks of New York City : Chrysler Building

The Chrysler Building was the first man-made structure in the world to be taller than one thousand feet. It is still the world's tallest brick building. However, it only held the record for tallest building for less than one year, when the Empire State Building surpassed it.