

The Northern Gannet

Northern gannets are the largest of all seabirds in the North Atlantic Ocean. They breed on rocky cliffs, and each bird greets its returning mate with an upstretched neck and bill tapping. Gannets can dive deeper than most birds, pursuing many fish.

Handwriting practice lines consisting of solid top and bottom lines with a dotted midline. There are ten such lines provided for practice.